Macquarie University Recognises some Outstanding Teachers.

Dr Lesley Hughes – Department of Biological Sciences
No amount of well-taught theory in a class situation can compare to what was learnt by students on the field trip.

Dr Michael Roberts – Department of Modern History
I saw clearly that twenty-six hours of taped lectures plus a teacher-dominated online bulletin board was not the way to go.

Dr Iain Stewart – Department of Law
It is sometimes assumed that online teaching is particularly suited to external students. In my experience that is illusory.

Ms Leonie Tickle – Department of Actuarial Studies
I believe that students have gained even greater benefit from the group presentations with the recent introduction of non-assessable peer-feedback.

Dr Suzan Burton – Graduate School of Management
The basis of teaching success relies on remembering what it was like to be a student, what you liked, what you hated and then working to continuously improve your teaching.

Dr Malcolm Voyce – Department of Law and Justice
I encourage students to develop their own ideas and to articulate their position clearly. I try to use the class experience to bring out a discussion on difficult social issues.
